Health care fraud and the opioid epidemic is not only lethal - over 115 Americans die each day of an opioid overdose - but costly. To address this complex problem, the U.S. Department of Justice partners with countless other public safety, public health, and national security agencies. Dr. Naomi Adaniya (MA, Geography, 2013) is at the forefront of the DOJ’s efforts. Hear first-hand about her journey from Derby Hall to the White House.
