

Graduate Assistantship Position in Geography at Temple University, Philadelphia, PA

Prospective Ph.D. students are invited to apply for a four year Graduate Assistantship beginning August 2016 in the Department of Geography and Urban Studies at Temple University for work on a sponsored project investigating the spatial analysis of substance use. This is an excellent opportunity for a student to join a diverse research team pioneering cutting edge applications of mobile and geospatial technologies to health. Applicants should have experience in GIS and statistics and an interest in health geography. More information about the project can be found in a recent publication here. Information about the Ph.D. program can be found here. The application deadline is January 15, 2016. Interested applicants should contact Professor Jeremy Mennis at jmennis@temple.edu.